

25th January 2012

Dear teachers,

There are some relevant things I would like to inform you about:

1. CL Granada WEB

Cabell and Elaine are working really hard to offer students resources (for general English and Cambridge official exams) on the CL web (www.clgranada.com).

Please remind your students they have the opportunity of doing practice of their skills on their own:

- Listening practice and related worksheets
- Reading-Comprehension
- Word Transformation

Students need to have a look at "Area de Padres y Alumnos" and then click on "Recursos". There they will see the different worksheets we have prepared for them. You can show them during the lesson time, or even use it for your lessons!! Whether you are teaching in, Puentezuelas or Recogidas, you have access to the Internet.

We have also reminded them when the results of the official exams will be given to students who did the exam in December. This information is uploaded on the Blog.

We want the web to be a tool and be helpful for all of you. We will be very glad to listen to your ideas and advice about material you consider relevant for your lessons.

Remember you can find resources for your lessons on the "Teacher's corner: useful links, writing ideas and more.

2. Trinity College London

From today on we are giving information to all students about Trinity College London exams. This information will be uploaded on our web and given to students by their teachers. As you may know, Borja is doing some seminars for teachers to let you know about the format of the exam and the differences with Cambridge University Exams. Please, remind your students the information about Trinity Exams and encourage them to enrol!

Just to remind you the importance of telling your students to use the resources that are available on our web and those resources we have uploaded to help you in your lessons.

Thanks a lot for your work and effort!
Ángeles Arjona
