

CL GRANADA, S. L.

C/ Puentezuelas, nº 32, 1ª Planta - 18002 Granada

Teléf.: 958 53 52 53 - 958 52 12 91

Fax: 958 25 15 46

E-mail: info@clgranada.com Web: www.clgranada.com

PET-Listening

Instructions: Listen to the article by a BBC reporter and fill in the blanks with the appropriate words.

Eating Insects
To some, they may not seem very But these could be part of the solution in the fight against world hunger. That's according to the United Nations, which says two billion people already their diets with insects. The UN says insect farming could ensure future global food security.
Exercise: complete each of these sentences from news reports.
1. Some experts suggest that the growth of the internet has added to the temptation to carry on working and a pension income.
2. These are women who hold no degrees or qualifications in hotel management, but are trained by life to cook tasty, food, quickly and without fuss.
3. Traditional cheese makers in France plan to take their competitors to court in a row over who can legally call their product Camembert of Normandy.
4. The research shows many of the UK's birds,, butterflies and small mammals are in a "freefall decline", with last year the worst on record for breeding birds.
5. Prince Harry helped the children to construct goody bags including bouquets of roses, salted dough jewellery and baked crisps.

CL GRANADA, S. L.

C/ Puentezuelas, nº 32, 1ª Planta - 18002 Granada

Teléf.: 958 53 52 53 - 958 52 12 91

Fax: 958 25 15 46

E-mail: info@clgranada.com Web: www.clgranada.com

TRANSCRIPT AND ANSWERS

Eating Insects

To some, they may not seem very appetising.

But these bugs could be part of the solution in the fight against world hunger. That's according to the United Nations, which says two billion people already supplement their diets with edible insects.

The UN says industrial-scale insect farming could ensure future global food security.

- 1. Supplement
- 2. Appetizing
- 3. Industrial-scale
- 4. Insects
- 5. Edible

