

Christmas present for a Saharai girl

Azahara is a saharai girl who has been living in Granada for eight months . Her host family made her feel very welcome when she arrived so it has been child's play to adapt to a new lifestyle.

After a few days she began to feel homesick but Christmas is coming so her host family have just decided to draw a plan to cheer her up

Azahara knows nothing about Christmas, before arriving in Granada her parents were really in dire straits so she was down in the dumps. This year her host family want her to experience real joy and affection.

Despite running out of money they managed to buy the ariline tickets for Azahara's parents and brother so they will be able to spent Christmas with them in Granada.

Walking around the city and visiting the Alhambra for the first time with her family will be an amazing experience,so they are determined to make it possible.

Spending Christmas in Granada with her family and a new job for her parents so they can start a new life will help them to get through bad times,the true essence of Christmas.